		Rule 12.3 and 23.1(b)).
2.	With inver	n regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application and necessary to the claimed ntion, this opinion has been established on the basis of:

1.	The	e following document has not yet been furnished:
	$\boxtimes$	copy of the earlier application whose priority has been claimed (Rule 43bis.1 and 66.7(a)).
		translation of the earlier application whose priority has been claimed (Rule 43bis.1 and 66.7(b)).
	Con the	sequently it has not been possible to consider the validity of the priority claim. This opinion has nevertheless been established on assumption that the relevant date in the claimed priority date.
2.	— (Ri	is opinion has been established as if no priority had been claimed due to the fact that the priority claim has been found invalid ales 43bis.1 and 64.1). Thus for the purposes of this opinion, the international filing date indicated above is considered to be the evant date.

- 2. Citations and explanations:
  - 1. The present report makes reference to the following documents:

D1: EP-A-194634
D2: US-A-3790742
D3: FR-A-2813158

- 2. Document D1 is considered the closest prior art. It discloses:
  - a copper nozzle for a plasma torch having a protective layer for its inner surface. The protective layer consists of a hard material such as titanium nitride. The protective layer increases the arc resistance properties and thus the useful life of the nozzle. The subject matter of claim 1 is therefore novel (PCT Article 33(2)).
- 3. The problem to be solved by the present invention can thus be seen as the fact that the high temperatures and the high flow velocity of the plasma stream cause damage to the nozzle, such as delamination, cratering or flaking. In order to increase the useful life of the nozzle, the invention provides the solution wherein microparticles of a hard material are embedded into the metal of the nozzle. Durability can be increased as a result of the embedded microparticles.

	This solution cannot be found in the prior art and is not obvious to a person skilled in the art. It therefore satisfies the requirements of PCT Article 33(3) with respect to inventive step.
